

News Break Scavenger Hunt

Sunday's News Break challenges you to hunt through the Sunday, January 23, 2022 print replica of The Seattle Times to find answers to the following questions.

1. Less than a day after the state Department of Health launched a website where residents could order free, rapid coronavirus tests to be sent to their homes, those tests were what? (MAIN)
2. What is a PCB? (MAIN)
3. Jackie Robinson was elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame in his first year of eligibility. What year did this happen? (MAIN)
4. President Richard Nixon announced an accord had been reached to end the Vietnam War and would be formally signed four days later in Paris. What year did this happen? (MAIN)
5. The officials increasingly cite high inflation in places including the euro area, where prices are climbing at the fastest pace on record, as a sign that the world is experiencing a shared moment of price pain, deflecting the blame away from U.S. policy.

But a chorus of economists points to government policies as a big part of the reason U.S. inflation is at a 40- year high. Although they agree that prices are rising as a result of shutdowns and supply chain woes, they say that America's decision to flood the economy with _____ helped to send consumer spending into overdrive, exacerbating those global trends. (MAIN)

6. The price of bitcoin has fallen from its November highs of nearly $70,000 to about $35,000. On Saturday, bitcoin, the world's largest cryptocurrency by market value, had fallen about ____% in ____ hours. (MAIN)
7. As the omicron variant derails travel plans around the world, airlines say strict European Union regulations are forcing them to fly near-empty flights — unnecessary and environmentally harmful flights that they argue they need to fly to save their long-term takeoff and landing slots at European airports. Airlines must use a certain percentage of their designated slots at airports to hold on to them. But low demand during the pandemic has led airlines to fly near empty flights, often known as _____, to meet the requirements. (MAIN)
8. After the Supreme Court's decision that large companies do not have to force workers to get coronavirus shots or tests, employees nationwide have wondered how the high court's ruling on the vaccination mandate from the Labor Department's Occupational Safety and Health Administration would affect them. The issue bubbled up so much among employees at _____, the Michigan-based clothing company, that CEO Mark Valade emailed workers a day after the Supreme Court ruling to provide some clarity: Vaccination remained mandatory. (BUSINESS)

9. Under the surface, Disney's new animated musical "Encanto" tackles heavy themes. What are the three main themes that were highlighted in the article? (BUSINESS)
10. For almost two years, couches have been offices. Colleagues are instant message avatars. And a workforce that had shocking changes imposed on it has reconsidered its basic assumptions about what? "The tolerance for dealing with jerky bosses has decreased," observed Angelina Darrisaw, chief executive of the firm C-Suite Coach, who saw a spike of interest in her executive coaching services last year. (BUSINESS)