

News Break Scavenger Hunt

Sunday's News Break challenges you to hunt through the Sunday, November 12, 2023 print replica of The Seattle Times to find answers to the following questions.

1. Gail White Eagle, a Muckleshoot master weaver, peeled bark from this western redcedar last spring, but only _____ width. Careful stewardship allows harvests from the same trees over many generations. As this tree continues to grow, its remaining bark will close in and eventually encapsulate the scar. (MAIN)
2. Diwali is derived from the word "Deepavali," which means what? (MAIN)
3. President Joe Biden said America's veterans are "_____ of this nation" as he marked Veterans Day during a visit to Arlington National Cemetery. (MAIN)
4. Dozens of young people knelt under the scorching sun this past week in Rio de Janeiro's rural interior, planting a green corridor that will be a future safe passageway for the region's most emblematic and endangered species, the _____. (MAIN)
5. What happened in this UW play on Saturday's game against University of Utah? (SPORTS)

6. Kia's forthcoming EV9 SUV has bidirectional capability. What does that mean? (BUSINESS)
7. What is microbiota? (THE MIX)
8. In the year since Chief Seattle Club opened ʔálʔal Café, staffers say the business is living up to its Lushootseed name, which means "_____." Today, the cafe serves as a central hub and gathering space where Indigenous community members, including those experiencing homelessness in downtown Seattle, can feel welcomed and be nourished by traditional foods. (THE MIX)

9. Sherwin-Williams alone offers nearly _____ shades of white. That makes choosing, naming and even creating a white paint far more involved than meets the eye. (AT HOME IN THE NW)
10. Actress Selma Blair teamed up with longtime friend and fashion designer, Isaac Mizrahi to make fashionable clothes accessible to everyone. What makes their clothes a bit different? (PARADE)