

News Break Scavenger Hunt

Sunday's News Break challenges you to hunt through the Sunday, February 4, 2024 print replica of The Seattle Times to find answers to the following questions.

1. In the Pacific Northwest, snowpack recharges our drinking water and powers our lives. Now winter precipitation is increasingly falling as _____. (MAIN)
2. Before Ezell's Famous Chicken gained the fame of its name — becoming the golden-fried favorite of the Pacific Northwest, now 17 locations strong and celebrating 40 years — they were barely scraping by. Then came divine intervention in the form of one Oprah Winfrey. What did she do? (MAIN)
3. A collection of sneakers that superstar Michael Jordan wore as he and the Chicago Bulls won six NBA championships has fetched $_____ million at auction, setting a record for game worn sneakers, Sotheby's said. The six Air Jordan shoes — one apiece from the last games of the 1991, 1992, 1993, 1996, 1997 and 1998 championship series — sold Friday. Sotheby's dubbed it the "Dynasty Collection." (MAIN)
4. Taylor Swift, who is holding concerts in Japan through Feb. 10, will make it in time for the Super Bowl to see her partner and football superstar _____ play. (MAIN)
5. Thousands of "boots on the ground" and millions of sandbags were deployed across California this weekend, as state officials help residents prepare for a deluge of rain with high winds expected to cause what issues? (MAIN)
6. Bullfighting, spread by Spain throughout its colonies in Latin America in the 1500s, has been at the center of a major legal fight over its return to the largest bullfighting city in the largest bullfighting country in the world. That battle has come to symbolize a larger war between what two things? (MAIN)
7. Black Americans — who for decades in the mid-20th century were shut out of swaths of the housing market by redlining and other racist practices — are disproportionately likely to be first-time buyers. And newcomers face a particular disadvantage in this market-what are they? (BUSINESS)
8. If "You Are What You Eat" inspires people to eat more plants, that's great. Most Americans don't eat enough plant foods rich in _____ and _____, and there are benefits to reducing meat consumption. (THE MIX)
9. Choose an onion matched to your region or, specifically, your latitude. Onions are categorized according to what? (AT HOME IN THE NW)
10. _____, while sometimes viewed as overused on DIY interior design shows, offers a striking focal point, if done right. A natural wood finish will draw the eye up, and add a bit of rustic charm to an otherwise blank canvas. (AT HOME IN THE NW)
