

News Break Scavenger Hunt

Sunday's News Break challenges you to hunt through the Sunday, March 22, 2026, print replica of The Seattle Times to find answers to the following questions.

1. A family celebrates Saturday after performing Eid al-Fitr prayers to mark the end of the holy fasting month of _____ at the Jama Masjid in New Delhi. (MAIN)
2. TODAY IN HISTORY: The British Parliament passed the Stamp Act to raise money from the American colonies, which fiercely resisted the tax. (The Stamp Act was repealed a year later.) What year did this take place? (MAIN) _____
3. As Hawai'i endures its worst flooding in more than _____ years, officials urged people in hard-hit areas to "LEAVE NOW." That warning early Saturday came after heavy rains fell on soil already saturated by downpours from a winter storm a week ago and still more was expected over the weekend. (MAIN)
4. The Senate on Saturday blocked an amendment that would ban transgender athletes from playing in _____, rejecting one of President Donald Trump's priorities as he pressures Congress to act on a broad voting bill. (MAIN)
5. Roughly 60 years after its founding by Cesar Chavez and other activists, the UFW remains a political force in California and beyond, though observers debate the extent to which it has improved conditions for _____. (MAIN)
6. Doctors across the nation are alarmed that skepticism fueled by rising antiscience sentiment and medical mistrust is increasingly reaching beyond vaccines to other proven, routine, preventive care for _____. (MAIN)
7. After a four-year break, K-pop supergroup _____ returned Saturday with a massive, free comeback concert in Seoul, where thousands of police locked down a central boulevard for the Netflix-exclusive spectacle that drew tens of thousands of fans. (MAIN)
8. All eyes are on the floating bridge, a phenomenon of engineering know-how, as light rail prepares to glide across the surface of _____. (MAIN)
9. All lanes remained closed on northbound Interstate 5 south of Bellingham on Saturday due to major _____, according to the state Department of Transportation. (MAIN)
10. There's no question that finally putting driverless semitrucks into regular interstate runs will be a turning point for the industry. A driver's salary is 26% of the per-mile cost of operating a truck, Truckers Report says, while other studies have found it to be around 40%. Going driverless would result in considerable savings for the U.S. freight-truck business, which generates more than $_____ billion in annual revenue. (BUSINESS)
